Circular

Subject: Guidelines to study Design Engineering I-A and I-B for Detained students.

In line with the implementation of the new revised syllabus for B.E. from the academic year 2013-14, all the Principals/Directors of institutes offering Bachelor of Engineering (B.E.) Program are hereby informed that during current academic year as well as during subsequent academic years there will be certain students who are detained in 5th semester. This students will not attend regular teaching classes during even semester of that academic year for which they are detained. However these students are required to study Design Engineering IA and IB during the even term of the academic year in which they are detained and have to clear the examination in the even semester.

The rules of Detention for the same are mentioned as under:

For such students who will become regular in Sem 5th as per New Syllabus, backlog for such students for the subjects Design Engineering IA and IB will not be considered for the detention for two attempts i.e. regular and 1st remedial.

For Example: Students who will become regular in Semester 5th in odd semester of academic year 2016-17, will have to study Design Engineering IA and IB during even semester of academic year 2015-16 and they have to clear the backlog of Design Engineering 1A and 1B by odd semester of the academic year 2017-18 i.e. backlog will be considered for the detention from summer 2017 examination.
